

Google Global Planning Committee for Women in Computer Science

Written by Marinka

Thursday, 21 August 2014 05:53 - Last Updated Tuesday, 16 September 2014 16:25

---

I have been given an opportunity to join Google Global Planning Committee for Women in Computer Science in an effort to identify ways we can have the greatest impact and reach more women in tech. As member of this committee I will partner with Google to build the community and direct outreach activities for women in computer science. To kick things off, we will have our global meeting at the Grace Hopper Conference in Phoenix, AZ, USA. I am excited to be part of this great program to promote women to excel in computer science and information technology.

Stay tuned, there will be many possibilities to engage with fellow technologists!